Screeners: This kind of search is useful if you are not looking for a particular stock or fund, but rather looking for stocks or funds that meet a certain criteria. For example, if you are looking for stocks with a particular dividend payout ratio or bargain stocks. You can do a screener search by selecting the type of investment that you'd like to make: Stocks, Mutual Funds, or ETF.

Whether you are searching for stocks, funds, or ETFs, there are two ways to use the screeners. You can either search by setting your own criteria for the screens, or you can use the preselected "Morningstar screens". Morningstar screens include such criteria as "Portfolio Anchors" and "Hidden Gems" for mutual funds, and "Cash Cows" and "Bargain Stocks" for stocks.
